The St. Louis Republican Club held a postical meeting and housewarming yesterday evening at its headquarters, No. 911 North Vandeventer avenue.

The features of the evenue were speeches by Major William Warner and John W. Noble and short addresses by Colonei George D. Reynoids and D. P. The stage was fitted up at the west end of the old gymnasium, and was occupied by the officers of the club and the speakers

The first speaker was General Noble, who delivered a patriotic prelude, and he was followed by Major Warner with a speech on the subject of State issues, which was mostly a dissertation on the Democratic management of the State.

George D. Reynolds followed with an address on "Joe Flory and the New Missouri." He described the new Missouri. He described the new Missouri that would exist when Flory was elected, but falled to mention that a new heaven and a new earth would also exist when this election took place.

St. Boniface Hall, Robert and Michigan avenues, Carondelet, was well filled with representative Democrats of the Tenth District, last night to hear an address from Congressman W. D. Vandiver of the Thirteenth Missouri District. Mr. Vandiver was introduced by J. E. Kennedy, chairman of the meeting, who delivered a stirring address. Mr. Vandiver aroused frequent and enthusiastic applause by his brilliant exposure of the McKinley administration in its attempt to convert Porto Rico, Cuba, and the Philippines into colonies, with the President of the United States as de facto Emperor of our colonial possessions after the fashion of England.

Do Not Expect Any Heavy Financial Losses to Result From the Galveston Hurricane.

Tornado and Cyclone Firms Would Not Assume Risks in Stricken City-Life Companies Figuring on Policies.

The insurance losses at Galveston are now engaging the attention of all the great nsurance companies of the country. The fire companies are not especially ininterested, because practically no loss was sustained by fire. The tornado and cyclone companies are also little interested. ecause few, if any, of them, would insure in Galveston, the general opinion being that just such a calamity as has occurred would befall the city, so that there is little chance of any adequate or even con-

The general impression is that the losses that life and accident insurance companies have sustained in Galveston will not seriously cripple them, notwithstanding the appalling loss of life. This conclusion is based by insurance men on the fact that only a small per cent of the population in any community carries insurance, and that any community carries insurance, and that percentage, as a rule, is composed of the higher classes of society, who generally escape because of their surrounding in such calamities as befell Galveston.

Then, again, it is often the case that entire families are lost in such disasters, and no one survives who can prove up the death claims or show any interest in the person insured. This was the case in the great Johnstown flood some years ago, and in the St. Louis cyclone of 1896.

R. A. Hoffman, general manager of the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, in this city said yesterday:

"I know that our company will not be embarrassed by the great storm at Galveston, and I do not think any others will be. While the loss of life is awful to con-

be. While the loss of life is awful to con-tempalte, I think it will be found that the great majority of the missing were of the class that do not carry insurance.

"In the great St. Louis cyclone, of the Ste lost, our company paid but one death claim. Granting that the same percentage of the population was insured in Galveston as here, and figuring the loss of life twenty times as great, we should only have to pay twenty death claims. I do not, however, think the loss of life will be that great. and if it is, unless all past experience is reversed, there is no likelihood of death claims up to the total of the death loss, for in all great disasters of this kind entire families are wiped out, and there is no one to identify and prove the death or make

"Of course there will be hundreds in the Previous to the afternoon meeting Mr. Bryan was tendered a reception at the Great Southern Hotel, and he was escorted death list who carried policies in the staight life companies, and it is probable those companies will suffer much more seriously than the casualty companies. At the present time, however, such confusion exists at Galveston that any opinion on the result is pure speculation, it being impos-sible to obtain facts."

Another fact which will tend to minimize

Mr. Bryan spoke for an hour and a quarter. His audience numbered many thousands of people, and they gave close attention, as well as frequent cheers. The speech was a general review of the political situation, and it was evidently intended to set Gorman said, might just as well be set down for Bryan and Stevenson right now. To prevent pestilence this course has been found imperative. Yet, it necessarily will result in the burial of thousands without in the healf of the Democracy by Mayor national affairs.

Now it is too late to bring such a suit, the Court states, unless it can be shown that fraud letter had only trust question.

The Court also refers to the allegation that Eugene R. Cuendet, when he took charge of the affairs of the E. Cuendet is indebted to the E. Jaccard Jewelry Company in the amount of $3,558.25 for overdrafts.

The opinion further states that the Court believes that the trouble with the administration of the estate and loss to the estate was not occasioned by any intentional act of either Mr. Witt or Mr. Cuendet, but that that does not relieve them of responsibility. It concludes by revoking the letters of administration granted to Eugene R. Cuendet and the appointment of his successor. was committed in the settlement. Agreement Made by Him.

nois River-Travelers Depart To-Day for the Trip to Keckuk, Iowa.

The first pleasure party to come from Lake Michigan through the Chicago Canal and Mississippi River to St. Louis arrived here Thursday evening in the yacht Vivian from St. Joe, Mich.

The trim little craft, which is the property of Captain A. C. Decker of Keokuk, Ia., landed its passengers safely and tied up at the foot of Chouteau avenue, where it remained all day yesterday. The party consists of Captain and Mrs.

Decker, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coulson, Ira E. Spenglar, Doctor D. W. Mills and Charles R. Decker of Keckuk; John G. Smith of Mobile, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ferris of Bushnell, Ill. St. Louis friends entertained the party yesterday and showed them over the city. The Vivian leaves here this morning for Keokuk. On September 4 the journey from St. Joe commenced. The coast of Lake Michigan was hugged on the trip to Chicago, Captain Decker did not try to make a record-breaking run, stopping to fish where there was good fishing, and enjoying the scenery and climate. A short stop was made in Chicago before the yacht entered the Chicago River.

Good time was made through the slug-gish waters of that stream and through the canal. In the Illinois River the loading gait was resumed. Stops were made a Spring Lake and Quiver Lake, at both o which places record-breaking strings of which places record-breaking strings of game fish were caught. The sport at Quiver Lake was interrupted by the big storm, and finally had to be abandoned. Captain Decker says that the waters of the lake and river were tossed into whitecaps, and that it was impossible to navigate upon them. He was obliged to tie up under the shelter of a pier owned by one of the fishing clubs on the lake.

The Vivian is 50 feet long, has a 3-foot beam and draws 32 inches of water. She is propelled by a 21-horse-power gasoline engine. The cabin is divided into two sleeping compartments, which can accommodat a dozen persons easily. Captain Decker says that everything about the boat worked without a hitch throughout the trip.

However, the Board of Public Improvements and Supervisor of Lighting O'Rellly have succeeded in preventing universal blackness in residence alleys by having the Welsbach Lighting Company locate lamps at the mouths of alleys, wherever possible, so there will be some light regardless of the Municipal Assembly.
